Puerto Rican Delegate Poses, But Camera Fails . . .

Country Editor Goes Big Time in Cow Palace for One Day

By George Vierhus

Both the Democratic convention held in Chicago a week ago and the Republican convention now taking place in San Francisco achieved new heights this year in coverage from the newspapers. Probably more space in the country's press has been devoted to the current conventions than any other single event in history for a like period of time.

In addition to the newspaper coverage radio and television have so vigorously entered the picture to such an extent that the activities of the convention have become a part of this nation's home-life.

We appreciated the opportunity of being a part (even a minute one) of this great coverage program. We considered it a rare privilege to be accredited to the Republican convention. In "covering" the confab, we had no intention of competing with our contemporaries in the daily field.

Our approach was entirely different.

They say you can get the boy out of the country but you can't get the country out of the boy. And like the country boy gawking at the fabulous city sights for the first time was the way this country editor wandered through the Cow Palace that first day.

We were deeply impressed by it all.

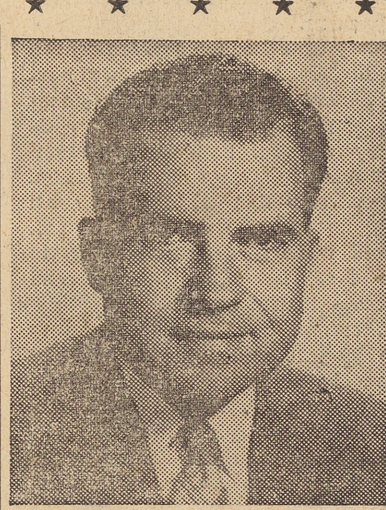
But it was the general atmosphere more than the speakers that touched us.

There is nothing like a party convention.

Between Sessions

This is being written by your editor at the Cow Palace in San Francisco. It is written in the general press area of the Republican convention in orer to give the atmosphere of this historical occasion a chance to rub off on us.

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER
. . . Heads the Ticket



RICHARD NIXON
. . . Gets the Nod

Around us as we write this are almost half a hundred typewriters all being pounded to death by the traditional hunt and peck system used by newspapermen. In this hectic "dead-line-rush" we are in an enviable position. This is the interlude between sessions of the first day of the convention. We still have two days to meet our own particular deadline and we think we can make it without too much trouble.

Although we carried our copy paper with us, we are typing this out on stationery furnished by Western Union with the impressive heading, "Western Union Press Message". We do not intend to file our masterpiece with Western Union but we feel that as long as we are covering the convention for The Campbell Press we had better go all the way and be "just like down town". We are certain that Western Union won't mind.

As we write this, we are waiting for the afternoon session to begin. The morning session lasted longer than the time scheduled and there is still another hour remaining before the gavel will fall calling the Republicans to order again. We have spent the recess wandering through the caverns of the Cow Palace, becoming more and more amazed as we wandered at the equipment and installations that were necessary to put this show on the road.

We must confess that we barely poked in our head at the morning get-together. We found the seat that we had been assigned and that was about all. We strted early on our exploration tour of this fabulous building built to honor the lowly cow but extremely suitable in every respect to conventions of all types. But we still didn't touch all the bases.

From time to time on our tour of the building, we would return to the press lounge set up by the various railroads. There one could rest from the arduous task of just walking, talking or writing. The railroad people were gracious hosts and plied all of us with snacks of all descriptions. Placed in the lounge at strategic locations were television sets reporting to the newsmen what was going on down on the floor.

So every one in the lounge managed to keep up with the activities, almost as well as if they were in their own living rooms.

Afternoon Session

Our biggest (and only) disappointment that first day was when our camera failed to work at a time when we wanted it to the worst way. Before the afternoon session got under way at 4:30 we talked with Marcellino Romany, the Puerto Rican who broke the tension of the 1952 Republican convention by asking that his three-man delegation be polled.

Chairman of the three-man Puerto Rican delegation "Rommy" provided the world with the laugh when it was needed in 1952. We wanted his picture for The Campbell Press as part of our coverage of the 1956 meeting. Romany, a lawyer, was back again as a delegate.

The famous Puerto Rican graciously agreed to pose for us. But it was then that our camera decided to act up. Patiently "Rommy" waited for us to get it fixed. But it was no use. We had lost.

We listened to Leonard Hall, chairman of the Republican National Committee an dthe keynote address by Governor Arthur B. Langlie of Washington. We were duly impressed by Senator William Knowland's speech and his introduction by Senator Thomas Kuchel with an accompanying demonstration for the benefit of the television audience.

But we would have enjoyed it much more had we been able to have had a picture for our files of "Rommy" of Puerto Rico.

But even without Romany's picture, we liked the show.

Didn't you?

Shades of the Past

Mrs. Frances Swane, Granddaughter Of John Brown, Dies at Home Here

When Mrs. Frances Swane, 72 passed away at O'Connor Hospital on August 15, after a lengthy illness, her death marked the passing of another of the many descendants of the historic abolitionist, John Brown, who was Mrs. Swane's grandfather.

Mrs. Swane, who lived with her sister, Miss Mary Fablinger at 95 N. Central Ave. in Campbell, taught in Campbell school for 26 years before her retirement. She was a member of the Rebekah Lodge, the Order of Eastern Star and the Campbell Congregational Church.

Besides her sister, Miss Mary Fablinger, Mrs. Swane is survived by Mrs. Charles Burke of Turlock, Mrs. P. R. Rorke of Burlingame, and James Fablinger of Pleasanton.

Services were held at 1:30 last Saturday at Campbell Memorial Chapel and interment followed at Oak Hill Memorial Park.

After John Brown was hanged for treason at Charles Town, Virginia in 1859, after leading a slave revolt on Harpers Ferry, his widow, Mary, and family traveled west and after undergoing many hardships and even threats to their lives by "rebels" also travelling west, eventually settled in Saratoga in 1881.

At that time, the war between the states was still fresh in the memories of many people, particularly those from the southern states, and there were a lot of them in Saratoga. When the news of Brown's widow and family coming reached Saratoga, many of the people were up in arms and prepared to give them a violent reception, including hanging or shooting.

But when the people of Saratoga got a look at the Widow Brown and the bedraggled remnants of her family, their hostility melted and the family was welcomed and some of those who were most bitterly opposed to their settling in their town, became their dearest friends.

Mrs. Brown died in 1884 and the headstone marking her grave still stands in Madronia Cemetery in Saratoga. The family ranch where the Browns lived for a few years has now become a historic landmark in the outskirts of Saratoga and is presently a Boy Scout camp.

Mrs. Swane, who passed away last week, was born the day after her grandmother died.

Mary Brown, second wife of John Brown, bore 12 of his 20 children. Her daughter, Ellen, married James Fablinger and with their three children, lived on a mountain above Saratoga, where for a time the Fablinger children lived in fear, as they had heard some of the threat to the family. Each day they waited anxiously for the return of their father who walked down the mountain trail for three miles to teach school in Saratoga.

Miss Mary Fablinger of Campbell and Mrs. Swane, were daughters of Ellen and James Fablinger.—A. R.

City Planners Deny Request for Station

"Service station saturation!"

This was the term used to describe the situation that exists now in Campbell at the public hearing on a zone change request before the Planning Commission last Thursday night.

The City Planners apparently agreed that the description applied in this case, for they turned down the zone-change application that would have changed a residential zone into a commercial one. The change would allow a service station to be built at the corner of Winchester Road and Kennedy Ave.

Corner to be Leased

The application was filed by Mrs. Serafina Chinazzo, represented at the hearing by Elbert A. de Montel, a San Jose real estate agent, who told the Commissioners that the American Oil Ca. planned to lease the corner. He told the Planners that it was felt by the applicant that the corner would be valueless as a residential location when Winchester Road was widened to its anticipated 90-feet and became a heavily traveled thorourghfare. He added that the plan was to move the house back from the street and put the service station in front.

St. Lucy's Protest

Judge Martin Walsh, representing St. Lucy's parish, spoke in opposition to the request. He told the Commission that the parish had just acquired four acres adjacent to the location and that the St. Lucy's School adjoined the proposed service station.

Judge Walsh impressively ticked off the number of service stations already located on Winchester Road and added that "need or necessity" was certainly not apparent in this case. He said that the station would create a traffic hazard to the school children and that it was actually "spot zoning".

Nestor Barrett, planning consultant, told the Commission he felt there was very little merit in the application.

A letter from Laurance J. Hill, high school district superintendent, was read by Evelyn Adamson, Commission clerk, protesting the zone change. Hill is owner of property directly across from the proposed station.

After the hearing was closed without a dissenting vote on the motion of Commissioner Hollis Logue the application was denied.

Held in Abeyance

In the other zone-change request on the agenda, the Planners held their decision in abeyance unitl a future meeting to allow the applicant, Mr. and Mrs. Burt Burda to resubmit an amended application. The Burdas, through their attorney, Fred S. Reinheimer of San Jose, were allowed to withdraw their application for a zone change from residential to commercial for their property known as the Campbell Hatchery at 50 Mission Way.

The Hatchery has operated in that location on a non-conforming use permit for many years. The Burdas requested that the zone be changed to allow the operation of other types of commercial enterprises.

It was pointed out at the hearing that Mission Way is a private Road only 20-feet wide and the Commissioners did not appear too eager to change the zoning because of this factor. The attorney said that it was planned to build a two-story structure on the location with retail outlets on the first floor and rental units above them. They also planned to remodel part of the present hatchery structure which has not been operating for some time. They claimed that property in the immediate vicinity would benefit from the change.

The Burdas had previously been denied their request that the zone be changed to light industrial. They took exception to the protest filed by letter by William C. Henley, Campbell school superintendent, who owns property on Mission Way. Henley by letter told the Commission that he felt Mission Way could not carry traffic of a commercial nature.

Will Resubmit Request

The Burdas also own property extending to Rincon Ave., adjacent to the location they had requested rezoned. When it was indicated that the Commission would look with more favor on their ap-

Campbell to Reduce Tax Rate As Property Values Take Hike

Campbell's city tax rate will be reduced this year from last by almost three cents per $100 assessed valuation despite a number of major expansion projects planned for the city during the fiscal year. Based on the official assessed valuation of $9,293,800, the City Council is scheduled to set a tax rate of .71373 at the meeting on Monday night.

The assessed valuation unexpectedly jumped almost $2 million over last year's figure of $7,390,450. When the city's first tentative budget was drawn up, it was estimated that a tax rate of 86 cents would be necessary to raise the $63,833.33 needed from property tax income. The increase of $1,903,350 in valuation now makes it possible to reduce the tax rate almost 14 cents from the original estimate. The legal tax rate limit for the city is $1.00 per $100 assessed valuation.

The tentative budget had been adopted before the City Council learned that assessed valuation estimate was too low. The City did not receive official confirmation of the new assessed valuation figure until this week. Based on this expected increase, the Council then amended the budget to allow for a five per cent salary increase for city employees other than department heads.

Salary Increases

Salary increases for all city employees is just one of the "growing pains" accounted for in the new budget. The property tax income approximately accounts for only 15 per cent of the total budget of $385,000. Other income is derived from state subventions, business licenses and, for the first time, a city sales tax which is expected to bring in at least $34,000 in the two quarterly collections in the fiscal year whether under a county-wide set-up or by the City alone.

The widening of Hamilton Ave. from Central Ave. to Winchester Road delayed now until new bids are received is one of the major street projects on tap for the fiscal year while the purchase and remodeling of the city hall, the former Congregational Church on Central Ave., is another part of the expansion program for the year.

The City is purchasing the church building for $36,000 out of the general fund and will spend another $20,000 to remodel the structure. The City took possession of its new city hall on August 1. Preliminary remodeling work has already been started.

Tremendous Growth

The tax rate set by the City last year was .74156 and the entire city budget in 1955-56 came to $266,819.46. City officials explain that the increased valuation of the city shown each succeeding year since the city's incorporation, gives graphic evidence of the tremendous growth of the area. Since 1953-54, the assessed valuation has jumped from $5,758,670 to today's figure of $9,293,800, an increase of $4,535,130. In 1954-55, the valuation was $6,931,340, and in 1955-56 $7,390,450.

Plea for Tree Not for Free

It will cost money to save the tree, but it can be done.

That's what Nestor Barrett, city planning consultant, told the Planning Commission Thursday night in a preliminary report on what is in store for the famous Roosevelt Redwood at the intersection of Campbell Ave. and Winchester Road.

Barrett said that the tree planted by President Roosevelt in 1903, can be saved by moving the center line on Winchester Road about 20 feet to the west.

This would mean then, of course, that the tree would be left on private property (Karl Bohnett) and its disposition (unless the City bought it) would be left in the hands of the property owner.

Barrett said he didn't favor a plan which would make a traffic island on which the tree could stand. This had been suggested by Mrs. Alice Joy Keith, the actual instigator of the current movement to save the tree.

City Attorney Clears Deck For Ocean Trip

If Campbell's City Council hasn't a full agenda this Monday night, it won't be the fault of City Attorney Joseph Bonacina.

The energetic city attorney is planning to leave on an extended trip to Europe the first of next month and he has prepared a variety of items for the City Council's perusal and action for Monday's meeting.

Two sales tax ordinances are ready for the City Dads, although only one will be adopted. One allows for the county-wide tax with 9 per cent going to the county with the state handling the collection while the other is for the City to do the collecting and also to get the entire revenue.

Bonacina also plans to present to the Council the resolution for condemnation of those properties on Hamilton Ave. which the owners and the City have not yet come to agreement on price. There are 21 parcels affected in the Hamilton Ave widening project from Winchester Road to Central. Bonacina believes that all but seven will have come to agreement with the City by Monday noon. There are no buildings involved in the 21 parcels.

The city attorney also has called a meeting for Friday afternoon for all parties affected in the zoning violation case of the Charles Quinn fence on Bucknall Ave. The fence is reported to be a traffic hazard because it is not set back far enough from Virginia Ave. Bonacina, however, expects the matter to be settled amicably with no one getting hurt.

In the meantime the attorney has forwarded his ruling to the Planning Commission on the City's responsibility in the setting back of houses on the eventual widening of both Campbell Ave. and Winchester Road.

Chances are the Bonacinas will not miss this boat.

Fires First Shot

For almost 50 years Vida Rasa, 80-year old chicken rancher of 155 Kennedy Road, has owned a pistol. Last Friday he fired it for the first time.

This afternoon he faces Judge Paul Crawford in the local court charged with the "unlawful display of firearms".

Enraged at teenagers who; tormented him by calling him names as they passed his place, the aged man fired two shots at one of his tormentors. He was arrested a few minutes later by Chief of Police Robert Locke and Officer Dick Mayne.

Booked at the county jail he was released after posting $100 bail.

The weather-beaten man who walks with the aid of a cane and has resided in Campbell for 30 years, told the police that he had purchased the pistol after the San Francisco fire of 1906. He acquired the bullets at the same time.

Scoutmaster Needed

Boy Scout Troop No. 30 is in desperate need of both a scoutmaster and a sponsor. The troop is rated as one of the best equipped in the area with money in the bank and equipment on hand for camping and hiking. It is a self-sustaining troop and it won't take much to satify this group of eager Americans. Any organization that is willing to help these worthy youngsters either by sponsoring them or offering leadership is asked to call Adolpho S. Fowler (FR 8-3080), 825 Lovell or Edward R. Miller (FR 8-5782), 713 Audrey.

plication if better egress and ingress facilities were allowed, they asked to resubmit their application to include the area extending to Rincon and allowing for access to that street from Mission Way.

Protests Trailer

At the same meeting the Commission heard A. C. Goulding, 451 San Jose-Los Gatos Road, protest having a trailer parked on an adjacent lot to him. The Commissioner referred the protest to the building inspector.

The Commission was also informed that City Attorney Joseph Bonacina had called a meeting of the interested parties on the problem of the fence set-back on the Charles Quinn property on Bucknall Ave. which had been reported in violation of the zoning ordinance.

Present also were a number of residents from Winchester Park area who wanted action on the problem of stop-signs and cross walks at the intersection of Rincon, Cypress, Virginia, and Bucknall.

Eva J. Ballot, 63 Claimed by Death

Eva J. Ballott, 63, passed away last Friday in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Harvey Sheeder of Campbell, after a three months illness.

She and her husband made their home at 112 North First St. in Campbell.

Mrs. Ballot was active in many civic groups and a member of several local clubs. Among clubs she belonged to were the Ada Rebekah Lodge, Business and Professional Women's Club, Country Woman's Club, Orchard City Grange and she was a charter member of Campbell Garden Club.

Convention Gleanings

SPECIAL TO THE PRESS FROM THE COW PALACE: Wednesday 8:30 p. m.

The thunderous ovation given Richard Nixon this evening almost overshadowed that given President Eisenhower earlier. There were many colorful and noisy demonstrations following each ovation.

I saw a line of Chinese with dragons parading in front of me. There were air horns ringing in the ears, bouncing banners and dancing in the aisles.

Christian Herter's speech was the longest and hardest to hear from the press gallery while Tom Dewey's was the most clear, impressive and inspiring.

Chairman Martin time after time after each demonstration attempted to restore order and to clear the aisles, only to have to start all over again after the next big one.

After four hours of concentration on the session, I dashed down to the press room to write these lines and to call them directly to The Press directly from the Cow Palace in San Francisco, the scene of the 1956 Republican convention.

An interesting sidelight was that when Christian Herter nominated Richard Nixon, the band struck up, "John Brown's Body Lies A Mouldering in the Grave". Don't ask me why.

Rotarians Get Dope on 'Dope'

Rotary Club members heard an informative talk on narcotics at their meeting last Monday, when George Best, Santa Clara County deputy sheriff, was guest speaker. He was introduced by Ray Strong, chairman of the day.

Best, whose assignments are predominantly in the field of illegal use of narcotics, received his training with the State Narcotic Division. He stated that there are from 40 to 100 heroin and opium addicts in the San Jose area and each addict uses from $20 to $200 worth of narcotics per day.

Best went on to say that laws are worded in such a way that the red tape involved before enforcement officers can go after suspects, makes it difficult and many times impossible to apprehend peddlers and addicts.

"Antiquated, Unprogressive"

School District Committee Blasts Present Set-up Throughout County

The Santa Clara County Committee on School District Organization has issued an 11-point statement urging studies leading to complete reorganization of the school districts. The report claims that the district system now in operation over part of the county is "shortsighted, antiquated and unprogressive"

A. L. Christopher is chairman of the Committee and Dr. O. S. Hubbard, County Superintendent of Schools, is secretary. Mrs. Eugen C. Andres, of Campbell, is a member of the group.

The Committee, composed of 11-members elected for a four year, over-lapping term by caucus of county trustee representatives, in its report also set up a five-point standard for proposed school district organization.

The five points: (1) wealth or property of a local community should not determine the educational advantages; (2) children of the lower grades should be educated as close to the home as possible; (3) reorganization should be planned to effect the most equitable tax base and the best utilization of available funds for the support of education; (4) all foreseeable future developments should be considered in any proposed reorganization; (5) consideration should be given to the use of existing school facilities.

In its 11-point blast at the present school district set-up, the Committee claims that having such a large number of small districts is uneconomical and constitutes a threat to continuation of local control of public education.

11-Point Platform

1. All children in Santa Clara County should receive equal educational opportunities.

2. Satisfactorily organized districts provide a better all around program and more equitable use of available local funds.

3. The district system as now organized over part of the County is shortsighted, antiquated and unprogressive. It does not contribute to the ideal of providing equal educational and social advantages to all boys and girls in the county. The variation in assessed valuation behind each child makes for unequal educational opportunities—consideration should be given for a uniform county tax base to equalize educational opportunity.

4. Most reasons for small school districts while once justified, are no longer valid in light of today's progress in communication and transportation.

5. The existence of small, weak and inefficient school districts in Santa Clara County constitutes a possible threat to continuation of local control of public education.

6. Districts can be organized into larger units and still maintain local control.

7. This committee is opposed to mandatory district reorganization and believes greater effectiveness can be obtained by local study favoring natural and logical educational communities formed on the basis of impersonal surveys by local people. The Committee's recommendation shall not be influenced by any vocal minority group but only on an unbiased opinion. Final acceptance of recommended reorganization is subject to approval of qualified voters residing within the proposed districts.

8. The committee agrees with findings of educational authorities that better education can be given in groups sufficiently large to afford well-rounded programs. Some of our existing county schools fall far below the required level resulting in substandard education.

9. Larger units in logical attendance centers can provide such educational services as remedial teaching, health services, hot lunch programs, vocational training and social activities.

10. Because of known requirements due to growth within the county, it is imperative that immediate action be taken to properly insure economical and efficient use of school facilities both existing and planned.

11. School Administrators and officials are hereby encouraged to work in cooperation with this Committee, and joint effort should result in a more effective school district organization.

A work day has been called by the buildiing committee for next Saturday when a number of details about the new building will be finished. Main item will be building a redwood fence around the patio. Thayer Lyons, the contractor, is in charge of the work, with Joe Dahl, and LBen Howard, co-chairmen of the committee, and Bill Beyer.

The Women's Society for Christian Service will hold their first fall meeting at the church on September 8, with Mrs. Larry Quinsland presiding. A business meeting at 10 a.m. will precede luncheon and a program entitled "The Spirit of Christ for All of Life", with Mrs. Mervil MacLean in charge. All women of the church are invited.

Tandem Club will hold their family picnic at the James Barnett place at 13939 Quito Road, starting at 6:30 p.m. tomorrow. Families will bring their own lunches. Children will enjoy the many farm animals at the Barnett place, as they have on previous picnics. Mr. and Mrs. Carnet are chairmen in charge of the affair.

Six Bay Counties Make Determined Effort to Control Air Pollution

Six Bay Area counties, determined to preserve the climate that has helped make the area world-famous, have joined in an unprecedented venture aimed at preventing and controlling air pollution.

Only partially understood by many Bay Area residents, this cooperative effort in the form of legislation passed at the 1955 legislative session, becomes effective next October 1. From that day on, the newly-established governmental agency will play an important part in the everyday lives of home and automobile owners, industrialists, farmers, housewives and local government officials.

Acting in a cooperative spirit, representatives from the cities and counties pooled their authority in the field of air pollution to form an agency which spreads equally over the counties of San Francisco, Marin, San Mateo, Contra Costa, Alameda and Santa Clara.

The cities and counties were joined in this cooperative effort by leaders of industry and agriculture who recognized that positive action had to be taken to preserve what has become one of the area's most valuable assets—clean air.

Laws Not Enough

The answer to this question is not found in simply passing a law. Even modern science has not come up with the final solution to the causes of and remedies for atmospheric pollution. But many things can be done to reduce the amount of waste materials now being discharged into the air.

Legislators representing the six counties recognized that a lot of questions regarding air pollution still remain unanswered. For this reason, they granted authority in the law for the district to conduct an active fact finding program. The district also will be expected to work with other agencies—state and federal—to learn and apply what has already been done in the field.

The district has broad power and authority to regulate the discharge of wastes into the air whenever it is determined that these wastes constitute a significant factor.

The problem of solving air pollution will not be achieved on Monday, October 1. Public understanding, an attitude of patience and cooperation, are the immediate goals of the district's board of directors headed by Francis Dunn, Jr., Alameda County Supervisor.

How Directed

The district air pollution control progrom will be directed by a 12-member board whose representatives have been designated by city councils and boards of supervisors within these six counties. In every case, the board members are elected representatives of the people either as a county supervisor or city councilman.

Perhaps the most important single individual in the district's program and organization is the Administrative Control Officer who is yet to be appointed. Candidates for this key post have been invited from all over the United States. From a field of 45 applicants, the State Personnel Board has already screened out all but 12.

The law under which this man will work, provides that his first duties will be to conduct detailed surveys and studies of conditions in the Bay Area to determine what regulations are needed and to recommend specific steps that may be taken.

Based on these findings, the board may adopt rules and regulations governing any activity which involves discharge of foreign materials into the atmosphere. When such rules have been officially adopted, it will be the duty of the control officer to enforce them. To accomplish this, the law provides ample power and authority.

Another key man in the organization will be the executive secretary to the board. His duties will be to assist the control officer in the purely administrative matters and paper work that so often hamper a public official of this type.

Throughout the activities of the district, both the board of directors and the control officer will be expected to draw upon the experience and knowledge of a high-powered Advisory Council. This 20 member body is composed of representatives in the fields of agriculture, architecture, community planning, general contracting, industry, organized labor, professional engineering, health agencies, transportation, universities, and the public at large.

This arm of the district organization represents the link or the liaison with the general public. The law wisely provides that the council may offer its recommendations to the board whenever it is considered advisable.

Assisting Dunn as vice-chairman of the board is William C. Blake, Supervisor of San Francisco. On the board from Santa Clara County is Supervisor Sam Della Maggiore. Other members of the council from Santa Clara County include, Dr. Elwyn Turner, County Health Officer and Air Pollution Control Officer of Santa Clara County, Dale H. Hutchinson, assistant to the Director, Stanford Research Institute; William J. Nicholson, general contractor, Santa Clara; Ralph W. Shafer, general production manager, Accent; and Patrick J. Morgan, Palo Alto, acting executive secretary.

The Right Attitude

The Town of Los Gatos recently filed annexation proceedings on some 50 acres of uninhabited territory. On 20 acres of this parcel on E. Parr, just south of Campbell, Cascade Research, Inc., now in Los Gatos plans to build a new plant.

Both Campbell and Los Gatos city officials had discussed the area in question previously. The understanding of the Campbell group was that the Cascade Research would be given an opportunity to decide which city it would come into. Thus, when it was included in the annexation of Los Gatos, the Campbell people were surprised and hurt, for relations between Los Gatos and Campbell have always been on a high plane.

Los Gatos officials on their own volition when the matter was brought to their attention, withdrew the 20 acres of Cascade from the annexation.

We think this was an example of the highest type of friendly inter-community relations and should be encouraged. It is a distinct contrast to the usual dog-eat-dog attitude that is generally in effect between cities that are facing expansion problems.

"We value the friendly relations of Campbell more than the loss of an industry," was the way Mayor Merrill of Los Gatos put it.

We have commended Mayor Merrill and the Los Gatos Town Council in the columns of this paper previously, but we think it is apropos to publish the following editorial from the Los Gatos Times-Observer relating to the same subject:

A NEW APPROACH

Industry usually goes where it wants to go—not where it is pressured into going, and certainly seeks an area where it believes, for one reason or another, it will be happiest.

The Town Council of Los Gatos must have instinctively had this in mind when this week it willingly and cheerfully gave over to the City of Campbell the acreage on which the Cascade Research Co. intends to build, on Parr Ave.

The Town Council withdrew about 20 acres from the Los Gatos Creek Annexation No. 2 so that the Cascade Co. would be in the city limits of Campbell, where they had indicated they wished to be.

The action also brings about a new approach in this county to inter-city relations. Sunnyvale and Santa Clara, for instance, have been at each other's throats for years over city limits, annexations, etc. San Jose has constantly been sniping at county areas for years, even snipping off the Los Gatos cemetery.

As the council, Chamber of Commerce and the public spirited citizens generally continue to work toward getting suitable light industry into the area, the loss of Cascade will rapidly be made up, and perhaps, we'll get more because of a friendly gesture toward another expanding and industry-conscious city on the north, who will feel, as our council felt this week, that inter-city squabbles don't really gain anyone very much.

OUT on the LIMB

George Vierhus

If this column fails to have its usual scintillating (?) style, charge it up to lack of time, material or anything. We are cheating a wee bit in knocking it out.

Usually we pound it out late Monday afternoon when our thoughts are more or less collected and we have gathered all our tidbits together in some semblance of order.

This week this little job is being done on Saturday because we have a sneaking hunch, if we are going to give the Republicans a break at their convention, our time will be at a premium.

Inasmuch as we are a fully accredited correspondent to the conclave, we must show our appreciation and take in at least part of the show. To do that, as you may have guessed, means that we will be on a pretty tight schedule all week, long. Tentative plans (remember this is on Saturday and we haven't yet picked up our tickets) call for taking in a session on Monday and then again on Thursday.

Lester Lafferty, former publisher of this paper, has graciously "offered" to cover for us on Tuesday and Wednesday, the two days of the week which we are afraid The Press needs us more than do the Republicans.

We readily admit that it is kinda silly to tell you about all this now, inasmuch as when you read it the convention will be almost over.

—o—

As you might guess from time to time we jot down notes about items we think we can use in this column. Often we can't decipher our own notes and that generally means that posterity in general and you in particular are perhaps deprived of some real gems.

But these same notes (provided we can read 'em) also come in mighty handy at times like these when we want to turn out this column a little earlier than usual.

These notes have a tendency to accumulate. So it is fortunate that we do have an opportunity to get rid of 'em once in a while. If you will pardon us, we will now fill the rest of this column by referring to our notes: (Some of 'em won't mean much, but we are game, if you are)

—o—

Item: "Golf: my speed. Murray." This has reference to our recent conversation with Dale Murray, president and general manager of the Western Development Co. which plans a 9-hole, par-3 golf course close to Campbell on Winchester Road. Murray told us that such a course with distances varying from 135 yards to 195 yards between holes will provide an excellent opportunity for inexperienced golfers to get the feel of the game. We like the game but are the world's worst at it. We know we need practice, especially with irons. Hence the note "my speed". (Heck, that note made sense. We are surprised)

Item: "Addresses: vice-president . . principal town paper."

This is a little more difficult to decipher but we happen to know that this little jewel refers to two different but related subjects.

Recently we received a letter addressed: Campbell Publishing Co., Inc., attention: Vice-President in Charge of Sales".

We passed it around the office a couple of times before we finally opened it. (By the way, that was before we lost a $1200 per year account by our story on the postmaster hassle. Otherwise we think there might have been some question in the office about our right to receive the letter.

We admit that the note isn't worth too much. But we got a kick out of it. Incidentally it was from the Wall Street Journal.

—o—

The other part of the note had reference to another letter we received recently.

This one was from Judge and Mrs. Earl Wakeman, now of Altadena but formerly of Campbell, who were celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary.

We have to give the local post office crew credit for getting it to us promptly, for actually it was really addressed to the postmaster.

Here's what was on the envelope: "Postmaster: Please give to the principal town paper, Campbell, Calif."

We are happy to say that we got it without any question. But to our dying day we will never cease to wonder where it would have gone, if there had been another local newspaper in town.

But we won't go into that. Just imagine though what a spot the post office crew would be in. For sure there would have been another hassle. This time the newspaper that was overlooked would have been upset.

At least its pride would have been hurt because EVERY newspaper feels it is the "principal town paper".

—o—

Item: "Nice guy, Merrill". This needs some explaining. In this particular case, although it could easily apply to our neighbor and city treasurer, Ed Merrill, it does not It refers to Mayor A. E. Merrill of Los Gatos who was instrumental in getting his fellow councilmen to withdraw 20 acres from a proposed annexation to Los Gatos because it supposedly infringed on Campbell's sphere of influence. Mayor Merrill said he valued the maintaining of friendly relations with Campbell above the loss of the industry that is contemplated for the area.

We thought it was a nice neighborly gesture. Hence the note.

—o—

Here is the last note we have and we have filled more of the column than we had originally intended anyway.

Item "Tree . . Som Reed, Milt Nelson, Ike to plant."

We think we will have to expand and expound on this theme at another time.

So wait until the next issue for the next thrilling installment.

"Will Sam and Milt crawl out on the limb of the Roosevelt Redwood! (That will then make three of us "out on the limb" plug) and where does Ike enter the picture anyway? That's the ROOSEVELT Redwood.

We betcha you can hardly wait for the next installment.

But we won't make book on it.

VIRGINIAN LOSES SMOKES

Burglars with a taste for steaks and smokes moved in some time Tuesday night on The Virginian, popular eating place at Campbell Ave. and San Jose-Los Gatos Road. Not content with just taking a few packages of cigarettes, the burglars carted off the cigarette vending machine. They entered through a back window and left with their load through the back door. An estimated $30 worth of meat and cigars were taken.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

(Views, opinion etc. express- in this column do not necessarily reflect those of this newspaper. This column is by and for our readers.)

Has Plan for Town

Editor, Campbell Press

Dear Sir: Three things prompt this letter. First a certain columnist's description of Campbell! Second, the unconcealed, but perhaps justified opinion of our town by 'out of town' friends! Third, the contents of "Out on the Limb" with George Vierhus, in the August 2 issue of the Campbell Press!

In this column mention was made that (quote) there is room for improvement all over town, we all must admit. There are so many offenders that it would be difficult to pinpoint any particular group or individual as being the cause of the unattractiveness of Campbell. (end of quote).

The article continues with the statement that store owners could help by not sweeping debris into the street gutters—that owners of lots overgrown with weeds could help by cleaning 'em up—that a number of business places could stand repair or repaint jobs.

Well, some months ago, I wrote a letter to this colunm and my letter dealt with these very things—in fact, almost word for word!

In my letter, I introduced myself as a comparative newcomer. My views stated then were those of a new resident of our town who saw the town as outsiders and a few residents saw it. I referred to the weeds growing against business houses and public buildings, the stores in need of painting, etc.

Please, for the benefit of those who did not read my letter, I also praised the schools and the police and Fire Departments and I exempted from my criticism those of our merchants and professions who do have clean and attractive business establishments and offices. And I also recognized the fact that criticism which is not constructive is not worthwhile criticism!

Therefore, I devoted time in thought and inquiry as to how, in view of my criticism, I could in at least some small way be of help in making our town more attractive.

I learned that in hundreds of towns and cities across the country a plan has been put into effect which has proven highly successful in ridding these towns of those things which detract and promoting the things which add beauty and desirability to a town.

So, through the mails came all of the information necessary to put the plan in effect in Campbell and the permission to do so.

All of this was turned over to The Campbell Press with the hope that The Press, as so many other newspapers have done, would promote the idea. While this plan has not been acted on to date I hope with all my heart that the Editor of our paper will see fit to promote the idea soon.

The local Chamber of Commerce as well as leading civic organizations could unite with The Campbell Press, and I firmly believe, start a crusade, with the plan as a guide which would do wonders for our town!

I don't think "Dirty Campbell" sounds good, do you?

Thank you,

CHARLES F. HUNT,
162 N. Llewellyn Ave.

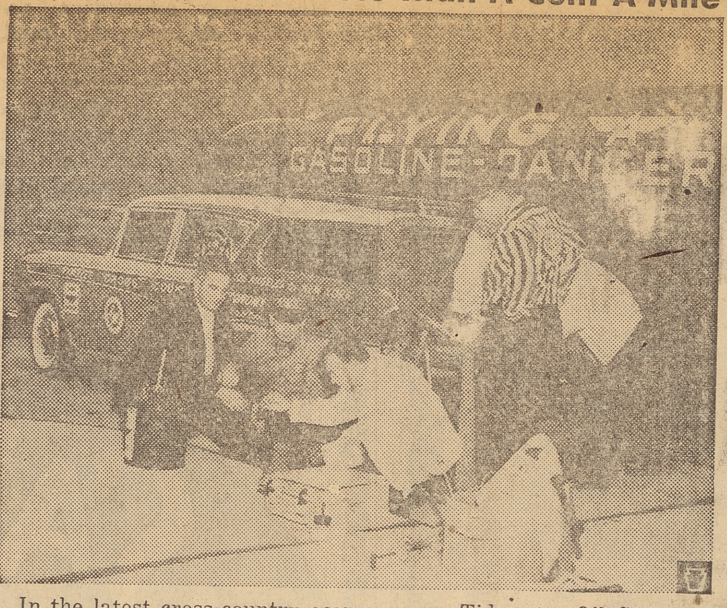
Coast to Coast for Less Than A Cent A Mile



In the latest cross-country economy run, Tidewater Oil Company technicians measured the exact amount of gasoline consumed by this Rambler station wagon in setting a new transcontinental stock car economy record. Equipped with overdrive, the car used 92.25 gallons of regular grade Flying A gasoline for the 2,961 mile trip from Los Angeles to New York for an average of 32.09 miles per gallon. The gasoline cost $26.17 or about nine-tenths of a cent per mile. The average speed was 40.3 miles per hour. Refueling was supervised by the National Association of Stock Car Auto Racing, the sanctioning body. Test engineers said mileage was boosted by the use of proper lubricants, in this case an SAE 10W Veedol Motor Oil.

"The law requires all injury and fatal traffic accidents in rural areas to be reported to the California Highway Patrol," declared Patrol Commissioner B. R. Caldwell. "Such traffic accidents that occur in incorporated cities are to be reported to the local police department.

Last year the Patrol processed 198,206 traffic accident reports including some property damage accident reports and many times, these reports lacked vital information due to failure to file a proper report," Caldwell continued. "The financial report is in addition to the police reports mentioned here and is to be sent to the Department of Motor Vehicles.

LAW IN ACTION

LAW OF NATIONS

You will find strange words in the U. S. Constitution: "Congress has the power to define and punish piracies and felonies committed on the high seas, and offences against the law of nations." No man owns the high seas, and no nation rules it. So that when a crime like piracy takes place, the law does not look upon it as against any one nation, but against the law of nations.

For centuries, all maritime nations have had the right under international law to capture on the high seas persons guilty of piratical acts and to punish them.

Piracy is an international crime, but each country punishes it under its own laws. Any nation has the right and duty to police the high seas, and any pirate loses the protection of the flag he may be flying.

As one court put it, the pirate is "treated as an outlaw, as an enemy of all mankind."

How far this idea of the "enemy of mankind" may go, is now a question before world opinion. The Treaty of Versailles, for example, held that Germans who had broken the law and customs of war should go to trial before the courts of the victors.

Though World War I Germans did not do so, those of World War II faced trial and were convicted at Nuremberg. The right of victors to try war criminals has been warmly debated ever since.

Where did we get the idea that there is a law of nations?

It comes to us through centuries of international trade, commerce, war and treaty making. Chiefly it came down through Roman law, and found expression in the belief that God promulgated a law of nature through man's reason which is binding on men and nations.

Defeats Mac's Market

Herb Raymond Team Comes Through In Local Little League Tournament

Herb Raymond's fast stepping ball club won the inter-league tournament by shutting out Mac's Market 12-0 in the final game of the Cambrian-Campbell tourney last week just before the all-star battle took place.

Raymond's team won the right to meet Mac's Market in the finals by turning back Campbell Lumber on Monday by 6-0 count. Mac's Market's semi-final win was from Western Gravel on the same day by a 7-1 score.

Herb Raymond and the Lumbermen, by virtue of their wins over the Robins and Methodist Men, respectively, faced each other in the semi-finals of the 8-team tournament and Raymond's bunch came through 6-0.

For the Herb Raymond team, Mike DeVita came through with a two hit effort on the mound. He was given strong support by his teammates as the Raymond men collected ten bingles. Larry Elizondo, Hoot Meredith, Lonnie Raymond and John Zintz all were credited withtwo hits apiece.

Mike Overhulse and Steve Fryar were the two who got hits for the Campbell Lumber squad.

Herb Raymond's powerful team turned its full fire on Mac's Market in the finals to win 12-0 going away. The Raymondites shelled Al Brasile, star Marketman hurler for a total of six hits to take the tournament championship.

Ten-year old Dick Berk led the batting attack the potent fastballer. Dick got the first hit for the Raymond squad in the big second inning. He clobbered a high fastball to loft a long fly which hit the left field fence on one bounce.

Larry Elizondo, 11-year old, and Hoot Meredith followed with two more base hits in quick succession. When the dust had settled once more, Herb Raymond had scored three runs.

Berg later came through with a sizzling liner in the fifth inning which was a big 5-run stanza for Herb Raymond.

Lonnie Raymond was on the mound for the victors. He pitched his second complete game of the tournament. In all Lonnie pitched 12 innings, giving up only two runs and two hits while striking out 24. He was by all odds the most effective pitcher of the tournament.

County Relief Rolls Decrease

In Santa Clara county, the number of people receiving the county-administered and county-financed direct general home relief went down 49 per cent, May compared with January of the current year, California Taxpayers' association reported recently.

At the same time, the number on the aid to the needy aged rolls in the county held almost steady, the number of recipients of aid to dependent children went up three per cent, and the number of people on the aid to the blind rolls went up four per cent, the Taxpayers' association said.

In May, there were 1,788 people in the county on the entirely county-financed and county-administered direct general home relief rolls, compared with 3,534 for January, the association found.

Aid to the blind rolls of the county showed 375 people for May, compared with 362 for January.

As Milpitas Goes –

As Milpitas goes, so goes the County!

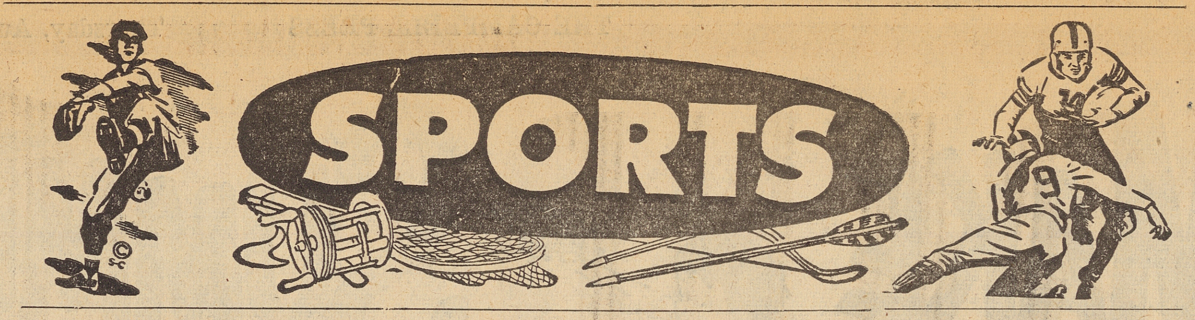
This paraphrased much used political slogan could be used to describe the sales tax situation in Santa Clara County this week.

Unless Milpitas agrees to the county proposal of sharing 9 per cent of the proposed county-wide sales tax, there will be no county-wide sales tax and those cities that want one will have to put their own tax in effect.

And unless Milpitas adopts the proposal (all of the other 13 cities in the county have agreed to it), it will mean that the county property tax will not be cut the promised five cents or so.

Optimism was voiced this week by various city and county officials that Milpitas will see the light before it is too late.

And next week is the deadline.



CAMPBELL ALL - STARS WIN

Campbell Little League All-Stars had an easy time of it in sweeping the inter-league championship against the Cambrian All-Stars series last Thursday and Friday at the Rosemary School field. Scheduled for the best two out of three games, the Campbell players only needed two games to clinch the championship, winning the first battle 8-3 and the second 13-4.

The Campbell All-Stars had planned to enter the Independent Little League tournament in Santa Monica but cancelled their entry this week and will continue playing all-star aggregations from this area.

Ted Bohn and Ron Citta, co-managers of the Campbell Stamp team in the Campbell Little League, handled the Campbell All-Star team. Bob Tompkins, manager of Mac's Market, and Don "Roundo" Witzel, manager of Robins, directed the Cambrian All-Star players.

The Campbell All-Stars included, Lonnie Raymond, John Martinez, John Zintz, Howard Allen, Mike DeVita, from Herb Raymond; John Short, Jerry Krug, Joe Newland, Western Gravel; Steve Fryar, Mike Overhulse, Campbell Lumber; Randy Sutton, Frank Testa, Dave Buck, Ronnie Speno, Bert Cobb, Campbell Stamp.

Top notch pitching and big league hitting on the part of the Campbell All-Stars proved too much for the Cambrian All-Stars in the first game won by the Campbell contingent 8-3.

The Campbell outfit under the tutelage of Ted Bohn and Ron Citta went out in front in the first inning and kept piling it on until they had a seven run lead going into the fourth.

Lonnie Raymond lead the bunch with a perfect three for three. Roger Sipes of the Cambrian team batted in three runs in the fourth with a bases-loaded double. John Short was the winning pitcher.

Campbell All-Stars cinched the championship in the second contest against Cambrian by a 13-4 score. In this contest, as in the first battle, the Campbell big guns went into action the moment the game began.

John Short, leading off, got on base by an error. He was advanced by Jerry Krug. Randy Sutton then cleared the bases with a double. With that the Campbell All-Stars had scored their first two runs and were off to the races. A total of seven runs crossed the plate the first inning to ice the contest, although the Cambrian players came back with four runs off of eight hits.

Lonnie Raymond pitched the first three innings and received credit for the victory.

90 YEARS
OF DEPENDABLE WATER SERVICE

This is typical of fire fighting units and equipment in this area about the time the San Jose Water Works began service in 1866. Exact location of the Union Hose Company, depicted here, is unknown.

Volunteer firemen were San Jose's sole protection against fire when San Jose Water Works first began to deliver piped water to homes and businesses 90 years ago.

Rival fire companies raced each other to the scene of the fire and even fought to get the glory of extinguishing a blaze. The steam pumper, bought in 1865, was pulled by horses, but the hose companies drew their equipment by hand.

In 1876 the city council voted to have a paid fire department and the water mains were spreading out to the edges of town. Today more than 874 miles of all types of main give this area fire protection of a high order, when combined with a total storage capacity of 2,361,000,000 gallons.

A big factor in the "fire flow" is the network of large diameter mains to take care of emergency demands. There are now more than 150 miles of main 10 inches or larger in diameter. Since the war San Jose Water Works has invested almost $15,000,000 in the system with continuous improvement in fire protection.

The well-trained fire departments of San Jose and the surrounding area, together with the dependable water supply provided by San Jose Water Works at the scene of a fire, give the central valley a fire protection service that has meant considerable savings in fire insurance premiums to homeowners and businessmen.

Campbell Resident Sends Report From Arctic Region to Press

Editor's Note: Ed Fries, who resides at 120 E. Kenneth Ave., is at the present time participating in "Operation D. E. W. Line" (Distance Early Warning Line), a government expedition in the arctic regions.

This is another one of Ed's reports, to The Press. Previously he reported on the preparations for leaving and just before shoving off. In this article he gives some idea of what is taking place.

Somewhere Far In the North East Arctic Ocean, In The Land of the Midnight Sun

We left Seattle in a huge convoy with a large armed taskforce. It was an impressive sight, as we steamed out Eliott Bay in formation into Puget Sound and then into the North Pacific. Thousands of people saw us off, as planes and helicopters flew overhead taking pictures.

Several days later we sailed through the Unimak Pass into Bristol Bay and then into the Bering Sea. The weather was calm and peaceful until we sailed through the Bering Straits, past the Russian Bastion of the Big Diomede Island, where the Red Air Force had 2800 big bombers based, always on the alert, and a dangerous threat to the entire Citadel of American Freedom.

American security cannot be measured in dollars or cents, as the true measurements of Liberty and Freedom, is the yardstick of the valiant patriots who gave their all, from the snows at Valley Forge, to the frozen slopes of Korea. D. E. W. Line is not only American security, it is a Hemispheric Security, even though two bit dictators down South, think otherwise.

July 27th we completed the first phaze of our trip, when we steamed into Icy Cape, and where later we made a rendezvous with another large convoy which left Seattle a week after us. We are now ready for a fast, hard dash through the N. E. N. W. Passage which will bring us even with Detroit and close to the North Pole. We have 24 hours of daylight and fog, some days are sunny, some cold. I found fishing good up here, also the King Crab and large shrimp which is in abundance.

The valuation of all equipment carried plus the entire convoy of ships,etc would pay off the entire Korean war debt with a huge surplus left over. We will work around the clock on our next phaze of the expedition, as we will have to win the battle over the weather, before the short summer season is over. Already the geese and ducks are flying South, which is an indication of an early Winter or else a long hard Winter. Huge Ice Breakers will open up the Passage for us and escort us in and then back out.

Mail service is good, as the Airforce flying daily flight with equipment carry the mail. Tonight I got two S. F. papers dated August 1.

We have technicolor talking pictures from times weekly which helps to pass away the time, as we await alert orders to move at once.

We have our own daily Radio Press News which is larger than this page. It is read very avidly by all. We do have the quietness of the Frozen North, as a barrier from the political machines who are trying to jockey in position for the Presidential November elections. Oh, for the peace and quiet of the North.

I will write you from somewhere in the Far North East Arctic Ocean.

Fraternally

Rosa P York, 42 Succumbs Sunday

Mrs. Rost Pauline York, 42, of 14900 Ronda Drive, Cambrian Park passed away last Sunday in her home, after a lengthy illness.

She was a resident of Campbell for more than ten years when the family resided on York Ave., a street named after the family. A native of Missouri, Mrs. York moved here with her husband and children in 1940 and all her children graduated from Campbell schools.

Mrs. York was a member of Campbell Netops Council No. 247, Degree of Pocahontas. She was a regular competitor in the home economics Division of Santa Clara County Fair and took many prizes for her handiwork. She won the grand sweepstakes there in 1952. She was also an active PTA worker at both Campbell Grammar and High Schools during the time her children attended schools here.

She leaves her husband, Jake, a son, Courtney York of Saratoga, and two daughters, Mrs. Betty Mobley of Cambrian Park and Mrs. Florence Boschert of Sunnyvale. She also leaves four grandchildren. Mrs. York was the daughter of Mrs. Margaret Burdick of Palermo, and sister of the Rev. Don Bias and Mrs. Dolly York, both of Los Angeles; Mrs. Leola Newton of Campbell, Mrs. Agnes Rabourne and Mrs. Ann Davis of San Jose, and Mac Bias of Washington.

Services were held at 10 a.m. yesterday at Campbell Memorial Chapel with interment following in Los Gatos Cemetery.

Senator Plans to Ask Legislature For More Judges

State Senator John F. "Jack" Thompson indicated recently that he would be "more than glad" to introduce legislation at the 1957 session of the State Legislature to raise the number of Santa Clara County superior court judgeships from seven to ten.

"Compared to other counties, such as San Francisco and Los Angeles," Thompson pointed out, "we are behind."

County Clerk Paul R. Teihl announced recently that the only way Santa Clara County's jammed court calendar can be relieved is by setting up three additional superior court departments.

Of the three new courts, one would be devoted to criminal matters and the other two to civil cases.

The number of civil cases has been increasing at a rate of about 300 a year for the past several years. A delay of 18 months can be expected from the filing of a memorandum to set cause for trial to the trial itself, according to Teihl. The national average is 12 months.

John T Flohill Rites Last Friday

Dolores Solari and William Harman Tie Nuptial Knot in Rites Sunday

The altar of the First Methodist Church in San Jose was banked with white gladioli and stock last Sunday afternoon, when Miss Dolores Solari became Mrs. William Dennis Harman in a candle-light ceremony. The Rev. J. Wesley Farr officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Before pronouncing the vows, Rev. Farr rendered two vocal solos, "O, Promise Me" and "Lord's Prayer", to accompaniment of the organ.

When she went down the aisle on the arm of her father, the bride was attired in a gown of white Chantilly lace over bridal satin. The long-sleeved gown was fashioned with a fitted bodice and the small illusion neckline was highlighted with a Queen Anne collar. Her full skirt formed a cathedral train in back. Her fingertip veil of French illusion was edged with Chantilly lace and attached to a scalloped coronet, edged with sequins, with each scallop centered with a large rhinestone surrounded with mother-of-pearl sequins and seed pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of Stephanotis centered with a white orchid corsage.

Her attendants wore identically styled gowns in different pastel hues. Her maid of honor, Miss Nancy Titus and matron of honor, Mrs. Earl Harman, the groom's siter-in-law, were attired in waltz length gowns of white embroidered organdy over pale pink taffeta. Square necklines and off-the-shoulder sleeves topped the fitted bodice. Wide sashes of the same material circled their waists above the bouffant skirts. They carried French-type bouquets of pale green carnations. The two bridesmaids, Miss Lucille Nelson of San Francisco, and Miss Joan Waspi of San Jose, cousin of the bride, wore similarly styled gowns of white embroidered organdy over pale green taffeta and carried bouquets of pale pink carnations.

Katherine Landon, age 4, niece of the groom, preceded the bride down the aisel as flower girl. She wore a full length dress of white organdy, styled with a bouffant skirt and fitted bodice. She carried a basket fashioned of tulle, filled with pink carnations.

The groom's mother, Mrs. Ovid Harman, was attired in a pink linen sheath with a matching short lace-topped jacket and white accessories. Her corsage was made up of white feathered carnations and Stephanotis.

Following the ceremony, the newlyweds cut their four-tiered cake, topped with wedding bells, at the reception in the church parlors for more than 200 friends and relatives of the couple.

When they left for their honeymoon trip to Carmel, the new Mrs. Harman wore a flowered print dress with matching hat, blue shoes and white gloves. The orchid corsage from her wedding bouquet was pinned at her shoulder. They plan to leave for Garden City, Kansas, where they will make their home, and the groom will be engaged in business with his father.

The new Mrs. Harman is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore R. Solari of 21 Carlyn Ave. in Campbell. She is a Campbell High School graduate and attended San Jose Junior College. She also completed a course for medical assistants at the Lawton School for Medical Assistants and before her marriage was employed in San Jose. She has one brother, Donald, a Campbell High School student. She is a member of Campbell Bethel of Jobs Daughters.

William is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ovid Harman of Garden City, Kansas. He attended schools at Garden City and Teachers College at Pittsburg, Kansas. He is a member of a Garden City Masonic lodge. He has served four years with the U. S. Navy. Besides his brother, Earl, he has a sister, Mrs. J. Landon of Garden City, Kansas.

Blohms, Lisenbys Attend Parents' 70th Anniversary

When Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Lisenby of Colorado Springs, Colorado, celebrated their 70th wedding anniversary on August 11, their eight children traveled from distant parts of the country for the occasion. Two of their children who reside in Campbell, were on hand for the event. Their daughter, Mrs. H. G. Blohm and her husband, who live at 1355 Regina Way, and their son, C. L. Lisenby, and Mrs. Lisenby and their daughter, Charlene, drove to Colorado for the occasion.

Other children attending were their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. McDermid of Washington, D. C., another daughter, Mrs. J. H. Clark and her husband from Albuquerque, New Mexico, their sons Harry R. Lisenby of Denver, Bert Lisenby of Meridian, Idaho and Homer W. Lisenby of Salem, Oregon, together with their wives. Another daughter, Mrs. W. H. Steele of Colorado Springs, with her husband, were hosts for the celebration.

Although Mr. and Mrs. Lisenby are 95 and 90 years old, respectively, they're still very chipper. In fact, when Mr. Lisenby teamed up with his granddaughter, Charlene, in a game of shuffleboard they trounced two of his sons with a score of six to five.

When a reception honoring the couple was held at their church on Sunday following their anniversary, the minister asked Mrs. Lisenby what advice she had to young couples contemplating matrimony. "Just listen to what your husband says and keep your mouth shut", was Mrs. Lisenby's reply.

Happy highlight of the gathering was a cablegram from their granddaughter, Elaine, stating she and her family had arrived safely in Copenhagen. Elaine and her husband, Robert B. Lyon, with their three children, Mike, Lisa and William were on the ill-fated steamer Stockholm which collided with the Andrea Doria in mid-ocean recently. A Norwegian ship took the passengers back to New York where they booked passage on another ship and finally arrived in Copenhagen.

The Blohms and Lisenbys returned to their Campbell homes last week. The Blohms stopped to see the sights at Mesa Verde National Park in Colorado on their way to Colorado Springs and the Lisenbys stopped at Estes Park.

DeMOLAY BOYS PLAN SCRAP METAL DRIVE

The Campbell order of DeMolay is appealing for public assistance in their drive to collect scrap metal. The Congregational Church gives them the use of their fireside room as a meeting place, and they want to buy curtains for the room.

Western Graved at Kennedy and Railroad aves, has donated the use of their grounds as a depository, and any scrap metal except paint cans may be left there. Frank Huff at CY 2-7059 will pick up any iron, steel, brass, copper or aluminum, upon receiving a phone call.

The DeMolays meet twice a month, the second and fourth Thursdays. Elmer Anderson is master councilor, Art Sutton is senior councilor, and Bob Longuevan is junior councilor. Dad adviser is Joseph Feasel. They are planning an installation early in October, and are beginning to plan for a New Year's Eve dance.

Point Barrow, the most northerly point in Alaska, is nearly 5000 miles from the Equator.

Netops Prepare For Fair Booth

The Campbell Pocahontas will join with the other Councils of the Degree of Pocahontas and Tribes of the Independent Order of Red Men in establishing a booth at the County Fair. Mmes. P. P. Guiterrez, Robert Loveday and Ray Gilpatrick were named to serve on this committee.

Campaign Opens

Frank J. Barcells, Candidate for Supervisor, Tells Stand on Issues

Frank J. Barcells, Santa Clara city councilman and now a candidate for the office of county supervisor from the fourth district, said this week he was interested in seeing Santa Clara county develop the Lexington dam reservoir into an attractive recreation area close to the center of the county and readily accessable to many thousans of central county residents.

Barcells also went on record for the rapid improvement of county roads and advocated county aid in building creek improvements, as well as assisting in the elimination of mosquito breeding places and spoke in favor of cleaning creek channels to permit a rapid run-off of flood water.

In regard to the county-city agreement on a county-wide uniform sales tax of one cent, Barcells, who has been one of the Santa Clara city representatives in the tax conferences, said he believes that any such sales tax revenue should be used for the benefit of property owners. Barcells added that if elected supervisor he would seek lower ad valorem (property) taxes, as far as possible through the increased revenue thus secured. The rapid growth of our County in Subdivisions, Commercial, and Industrial developments warrants a tax reduction rather than any increases on Property tax.

Barcells, who was the first person to announce he was a candidate for the unexpired term of Joseph McKinnon, deceased supervisor, has been conducting an active campaign throughout the fourth district.

This is Barcells second term on the Santa Clara city council, and according to the city's charter, he is ineligible for another successive term. Last year he served as mayor.

Barcells, who is 38, was born and reared in Santa Clara. He attended elementary and high schools in that city and is a graduate electric engineer. He has been owner and operator of a Santa Clara service station and garage for 18 years. With his wife, Mary and two sons, James, 8½ and Michael, 5½, he resides at 868 College Ave., Santa Clara. He is a combat navy veteran, serving during World War II.

At Mather Field near Sacramento to the U. S. Army Air Force sent 19 planes into the air to establish an altitude record mass flight of 30,000 feet in 1930.

PLANNING ON PLANTING?

GARDENER'S CHECK LIST

By The California Association of Nurserymen

REMINDERS

1. All types of container grown ornamental shrubbery can be planted now.
2. Earwigs can be easily controlled with chlordane.
3. This is the time to plant or divide and reset German Bearded Iris.
4. Gladiolus bulbs should be dug up if the tops are brown. Before storing, sprinkle the bulbs with DDT powder to free them of thrips.
5. Most lawns will benefit from a late summer feding.

Plants for Tropical Effects

In those parts of California where a semi-tropical climate is enjoyed through most of the year, many gardeners plant their ground with a tropical motif in mind.

The Chinese Hibiscus (Hibiscus rosa-sinensis) is a beautiful tropical evergreen with blooms in shades of yellow, amber, rose, vermillon and white. It requirs a frost free winter, full sun, regular watering and feeding and perhaps a summer mulch of leaf mold. A much hardier cousin to the Chinese Hibiscus is the rose, Mallow (H. Moscheutos) which grows as a perennial, drying to the ground in winter to come back in the Spring. The hybrid rose Mallows are hardy in all areas of the state and produce large, beautifully colored white, pink and red flowers. This Hibiscus performs best in hot situations—a warm corner or against a wall. Give rich soil and water enough to keep roots moist.

A tropical plant with striking blooms, the Bird-of-Paradise (Strelitzia Reginae) makes a handsome planting in a tropical garden. In the coastal areas of the state, give it full sun; inland tend to light shade. The Bird-of-Paradise will reach five feet with gray green banana-like leaves and spectacular orange, blue and white flowers on stiff stems. These flowres bloom intermittently throughout the year and are long lasting in the garden as well in cut arrangements.

The Strawberry Guava (Psidium Cattleianum) is another shrub which produces an edible fruit commonly used for jams and jellies as well as eaten directly from the bush. It grows to a height of 4 to 5 feet and has a glossy, bronze-tipped foliage and a white flower resembling those of common myrtle. The fruit is deep claret in color.

The Strawberry Guava is best suited to climates similar to that in which oranges thrive. Although it will tolerate a few degrees of frost, it will die when consistenly exposed to frost conditions.

The Pineapple Guava (Feijoa sellowiana) is an attractive sub-tropishrub that bears a small pear-shaped, green fruit excellent for canning. Like the Strawberry Guava it will tolerate a few degrees of frost but not as consisten climate diet. It has grey leaves and interesting red and grey flowers.

Any article on plants which produce edible fruit would be incomplete without mention of the citrus varieties which thrive in California—particularly in the warmer areas. Available in both dwarf and full-sized forms citrus plants can be used to enhance limited spaces, or in small groves depending upon your situation. For best selection of the citrus bearing fruit which will fit your need, consult your nurseryman.

As a large specimen plant the Abyssinian Banana (Muse ensete) is impressive. It is strictly ornamental and should be planted in a protected area. For rich fragrance in your tropical garden the Ginger Lily (Hedychium) is a perfect choice. As a tropical evergreen or herbaceous perennial it grows to eight feet or more with canna-like foliage and flowers of yellow, buff or white in dense spikes. The Ginger Lily prefers ample moisture, light shade (but full sun along the coast) and humus-rich soli.

Another type of ginger plant, the Shell Ginger (Alpinia nutans) also gives off a pleasing spicy fragrance. The Shell Ginger's orchid-like flowers bloom in mottled yellow and pink surrounded by tall, speared leaves.

Cannas are another flowering plant very suitable for tropical settings. And Aralias, also called Fatsia japonica, make lush, bold tropical plantings. They will grow from eight to fifteen feet with large, glossy green leaves that are sometimes 16 inches wide. White flowers appear in December followed by shiny black fruite. Plant Aralias in the sun only in the fog belt. In the warmer areas plant in areas that are protected from midday sun. In either area, Aralias will grow in almost any type of soil. Thinning them often reveals interesting plant structure, suggests the California Association of Nurserymen.

The planting possibilities with these tropicals and evergreens are innumerable, and there are many other types of plants for striking tropical settings all available at local nurseries for those interested in tropical gardens.

Back From Vacation

"The honeymoon is over" is a phrase often used to express a letdown feeling or a return to reality and chances are if you've just returned from your vacation to discover your yard and garden a bit on the overgrown side you may exclaim in exactly those words!

But all is not lost, cheers the California Association of Nurserymen, for with some pruning shears, your trusty lawn mower, water hose and some fertilizer you can tidy up and revitalize your grounds in short time.

With your pruning shears cut back plants that are setting seed and prune boysenberries, loganberries and raspberries, removing the canes that have borne fruit and trainin gthe new vines onto the trellises. Do your last cutting back on chrysanthemums and stake them if you haven't already. Shasta daisies can be cut back now too. If you haven't already lifted up and divided Spring-blooming bulbs do so now. Petunias that are lanky can now be cut back a little too, so they'll bloom again in September and October.

In the fertilizing department chrysanthemums (up to the time the buds show color) fuchsias and late blooming dahlias will appreciate a feeding now. Fast growing plants should be fertilized too.

Watering will probably be your most important garden job. Thoroughly water trees, shrubs, lawn and flowers. If August is a particularly hot month in your area a mulch around the roots of evergreen shrubs and over the lawn will protect roots from the sun and help keep moisture in the ground.

Once you've done the post-vacation pruning, fertilizing and watering you'll probably have your garden back in as healthy a state as when you left.

Plants With Edible Fruit

There are so many ornamental plants that can be enjoyed for their beauty as well as their fruit. Every California gardener should investigate the planting possibilities soon, recommends the California Association of Nurserymen.

In fruit trees, one of the most ornamentals is the Pomegranate. Actually this plant can be trained as a shrub eight feet high or a six to ten foot tree. In fact, if a row of Pomegrantes is only slightly pruned, it will make a fine informal hedge or screen. The waxy, red flowers and fruit are quite showy. For fruit the Pomegranate needs warmth; it will tolerate considerable alkalinity in the soil.

Hardy in cold or warm winters the Quince bears wonderful fruit that can be made into jellies and jams. The Quince's natural form is shrubby and bushy so it must be trained early if a tree form is desired.

The Persimmon is a beautiful and adaptable fruit tree. It will grow over all of California except the hottest areas. Flowering fruit trees, particularly the Crab-apple (Malus) and the Plum (Prunus) bear very delicious fruits. The Crabapple is available in many species; one of the best for fruit is Malus adstringens Hopa.

At the opposite end of the plant-size scale, plants with edible fruits include the ground cover Strawberry Hybrid Number 25. The fruit on this vine (which also makes a fine ground covering) is very tasty.

There are a great many other types of plants that bear edible fruit. Ask your local nurseryman to show you his selection of these that do especially well in your locale.

Lassen Volcanic National Park contains Lassen Peak, only recently active volcano in the United States proper.

California's first refrigerated carload of ripe cherries and apricots from the Suisun Valley went to eastern markets in June, 1888.

It takes only one tree to make a million matches; but it takes only one match to destroy a million trees. Be careful with fire!

SAN TOMAS SUMMARY

Isabelle Pechin
FR 8-8040

The San Tomas Boy Scout troop is inactive, lacking a troop leader.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Lisenby have just returned from Colorado Springs. Chuck's parents, the Charles R. Lisenbys, celebrated their 70th wedding anniversary, and all his children went home for the event.

The San Tomas Explorer's troop got back their movie film they took on their trip to the Wilson ranch, and they consider it "slightly terrific."

They plan to take more film on their long three day trip to Portola National Park which is coming soon. Doug Wilson is Post leader, and Duane Reed, treasurer. All the boys are first class scouts, working on their merit badges toward Life Scouts.

Advisor Walter Hancock is looking for a sponsor for this group, as their charter with the PTA expires this September. Any civic group which is interested should phone him.

The Rev. Charles Bradshaw preached at the San Tomas Baptist Church Sunday. The Rev. J. R. Warren is expected to return in time for this Sunday's service.

The San Tomas Baptist Youth Group plans to attend the Associational Youth Rally to be held at the Cambrian Park Baptist Church. The Rev. Al Gamage will speak on "The Cost of Compromise". Group singing and refreshments will take up part of the evening.

Fullbright scholar Robert B. Lynn was only a few days late for his music classes in Copenhagen according to Elaine's report to her uncle Chuck Lisenby. The Lynn family was on the Stockholm, and was forced to take another Norwegian vessel by the shipwreck in which the Stockholm was damaged.

COUNTY GETS DOUGH

Robert C. Kirkwood, State Controller, this week informed Santa Clara County that Santa Clara County will receive $158,656.36 as its share of the $5,813,762 in highway users taxes apportioned to the counties in July.

Highway Patrol Applicants Need No Experience

Prior police or traffic training is not a requirement for the state traffic officer examination set for October 13, 1956, according to word released recently by the California Highway Patrol.

"Successful applicants for state traffic officer positions in the Patrol will be given full training at the Patrol Academy near Sacramento," declared Patrol Commissioner B. R. Caldwell. "Graduation from high school or equivalent, top physical condition, good character and age 21-31 are the chief requirements.

"Other requirements necessary; a height between 5' 9" and 6' 6", proportionate build, a valid California driver's license and no criminal record," Caldwell continued. "Ability to ride a motorcycle is not a requirement; however, all successful candidates will receive training in motorcycle riding at the Patrol Academy.

"The benefits of a retirement program and the civil service status of state traffic officers offers strong inducements to qualified men to apply for this examination. It is anticipated at least 6,000 or 7,000 young men will file for the written examination before the deadline September 14, 1956."

Further information concerning the position and examination may be secured from any Patrol office in the state.

Rev. Herbert Neale Writes Home

Local Pastor on Europe Studytour Reports Impressions of Stalingrad

The Rev. Herbert Neale, pastor of the First Methodist Church of Campbell, is on a Studytour of Europe with a group from San Francisco State College. Considerable time is being spent behind the Iron Curtain. Rev. Neale has reported to The Press from time to time. The following is another report from Rev. Neale, this time from Stalingrad.

By The Rev. Herbert Neale
Pastor, First Methodist Church
Campbell, Calif.

Stalingrad, as you may know, was completely leveled in the Battle of Stalingrad. It was the first major defeat of the Nazis in the war. They showed us a very beautiful scroll sent by Pres. Roosevelt with his signature upon it from the people of America, congratulating the people of Stalingrad for their heroic defense. In that battle 347,000 German soldiers were surrounded, 147,000 killed, the remainder captured, including many of their finest generals.

Stalingrad is now being rebuilt. Some of the buildings are beautiful, but as is so apparent of newer Russian buildings, they just don't have the skilled laborers, and so because of poor workmanship the buildings are not holding up at all well.

Stalingrad is on the beautiful Volga River, Europe's longest river, a city of 500,000 people. They have not had the opportunity of contact with Americans and other foreigners, like Moscow and Leningrad, therefore, they are extremely curious about all of us. Last night the air was warm, balmy, just one of those nights you don't want to go to bed. In our shirt sleeves we walked down by the river, boarding and inspecting several of the boats. The beautiful walks were thronged with people after midnight. Our University of California Russian professor helped us get into conversation with several large groups of friendly people.

Tonight our group went for a sunset ride up the Volga River. The boat was a beautiful two decked yacht about eighty feet long with about forty other Russians besides our party. The river is about half a mile wide at this point. The sunset was indescribably beautiful tonight. During the ride our group sang some the the old American folk songs. How interested the Russians were! After we had sung for a while we noticed a small group of Russian girls around fourteen years of age, and we asked them to sing, and to the surprise and joy of all of us they did! We just had a wonderful time together. Even the captain of the boat came out on deck and shook our hands.

At four o'clock today we visited the Baptist Church. This was the second great church experience we had had. By all odds, this service was the most emotial and heart-rending experience we have had yet. There were many men and young adluts present. All but the children had gone through the Battle of Stalingrad. They know from experience the horrors of war, and all of us deeply felt their love of peace and their determination to be peace makers!!
